Ad Creation Guidelines

See full artwork preparation information. In general, unless you have in-house design staff, we highly recommend using the services of a freelance professional graphic designer (see the yellow pages under "graphic design"), or an ad agency. We require press quality Adobe Acrobat PDF files, which will have fonts embedded, and images of at least 300 ppi, and in grayscale.

1. Ads must be at final size per dimensions listed on individual journals Advertising page, with no bleeds (see links at right under Advertising Rates & Deadlines).
2. Please provide grayscale art. If possible, please convert black & white ads to grayscale in Acrobat Pro, pre-press tools. We do not accept RGB or CMYK ads for print. Exceptions: Native Plants Journal accepts color ads, and American Orthoptic Journal may accept a color ad in limited circumstances.
3. For color ads (only available for Native Plants Journal and American Orthoptic Journal in limited circumstances) we require a PDF file, in CMYK. Any color images should have a resolution of 350 ppi.

4. If at all possible, art should be created from electronic files, NOT scans. If absolutely necessary, artwork may be scanned, with a resolution of at least 300 dpi and at final reproduction size.
5. Convert fonts to outlines before exporting.
6. We do not accept ads created in Microsoft Word or Publisher. Please use a graphics program such as Photoshop, InDesign, Illustrator, or Quark to create your press quality PDF.

Creating Press Quality PDF Files

When creating PDF format files for publication in UW Press Journals, all raster-based graphics (i.e. photos, scans, etc.) must be at least 300 dpi at reproduction size. Please check that the settings for PDF export or Adobe Acrobat Distiller are set so as not to downsample to less than 300 dpi. Also be sure that all fonts are set to be embedded. Using the “Press Quality” settings should produce the desired results.

Ad Submission

Advertisers should send press quality PDF files by email attachment to Adrienne Omen at amomen@wisc.edu. The PDF must have all fonts embedded and be in grayscale color space. If in doubt, please choose “Press Quality” for PDF output.
