Livia Appel, The University of Wisconsin Press's First Editor

LIVIA APPEL was the first employee of the University of Wisconsin Press, hired as managing editor in 1937. University Press Committee records from the time indicate that she was hired because she thoroughly understood academic publishing operations and could be employed for much less pay than a man.

Born in Minnesota in 1893, Appel came to UWP from the Minnesota Historical Society. Little about Appel’s work at the University of Wisconsin Press has been researched, but her tenure included the difficult years of the Great Depression and World War II. We know that the first book published was Reactions of Hydrogen with Organic Compounds over Copper-Chromium Oxide and Nickel Catalysts by Homer Adkins. Appel also authored a small book herself—Bibliographical Citation in the Social Sciences and the Humanities: A Handbook of Style for Authors, Editors, and Students, published by UWP in 1940.

What we do know about Appel as an editor and as a person comes from her later work at the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. Historian Francis Paul Prucha, whose work Appel edited for SHSW, wrote a tribute to her in 1996 on the occasion of the Society’s sesquicentennial, which included this praise: “My encounter with Livia Appel at the beginning of my career as a historian was a never to be forgotten experience. . . . It is remarkable how far I have been carried by the principles of good writing and the practical skills she taught me.”

In 1956, Prucha reports, Appel moved to New York City, where she apparently did freelance editing until 1962. She died in New York in January 1973.
Money, Murder, and Dominick Dunne
A Life in Several Acts
ROBERT HOFLER

A revealing biography of the celebrity crime reporter, novelist, and notorious raconteur

Dominick Dunne seemed to live his entire adult life in the public eye, but in this biography Robert Hofler reveals a conflicted, enigmatic man who reinvented himself again and again. As a television and film producer in the 1950s–1970s, hobnobbing with Humphrey Bogart and Natalie Wood, he found success and crushing failure in a pitiless Hollywood. As a Vanity Fair journalist covering the lives of the rich and powerful, he mesmerized readers with his detailed coverage of spectacular murder cases—O.J. Simpson, the Menendez brothers, Michael Skakel, Phil Spector, and Claus von Bülow. His five best-selling novels, including The Two Mrs. Grenvilles, People Like Us, and An Inconvenient Woman, were inspired by real lives and scandals. The brother of John Gregory Dunne and brother-in-law of Joan Didion, he was a friend and confidante of many literary luminaries. Dunne also had the ear of some of the world’s most famous women, among them Princess Diana, Nancy Reagan, Liz Smith, Barbara Walters, and Elizabeth Taylor.

It was that public persona Dunne wrote about in his own memoir. Left out of that account, but brought to light here, were his intense rivalry with his brother John, the gay affairs and relationships he had throughout his marriage and beyond, and his fights with editors at Vanity Fair. Robert Hofler also reveals the painful rift in the family after the murder of Dominick’s daughter, Dominique—compounded by his coverage of her killer’s trial, which launched his career as a reporter.

ROBERT HOFLER has been an entertainment editor for publications including Life, Us, and Variety. He is the author of The Man Who Invented Rock Hudson and Party Animals, as well as Sexplosion: How a Generation of Pop Rebels Broke All the Taboos. The lead theater critic for TheWrap, Hofler lives in New York City.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Glenn Ford: A Life
Peter Ford
ISBN 978-0-299-28154-0
PAPER $26.95

Murder in Hollywood: Solving a Silent Screen Mystery
Charles Higham
PAPER $19.95

“You’ve met the two Mrs. Grenvilles. Now meet the two Dominick Dunnes, or three, or four. Robert Hofler stunningly captures all of them.” —Stephen M. Silverman, author of David Lean “Hofler has captured the wit, charm, pomposity, strength, and vulnerability that made Dunne such a complex and fascinating man.” —William J. Mann, author of Kate: The Woman Who Was Hepburn

• Tour events in New York and California
Death at Gills Rock

PATRICIA SKALKA

_They got what they deserved, the message said._

Dave Cubiak is back, and this time he’s the new sheriff in town. Investigating the deaths of three elderly men in the isolated fishing village of Gills Rock, he untangles a web of lies and betrayal begun more than half a century before. In a dark, moody tale, Cubiak encounters a host of suspects with motives for murder.

“They three World War II heroes about to be honored by the Coast Guard are all found dead, apparent victims of carbon monoxide poisoning while playing cards at a cabin. . . . Provides plenty of challenges for both the detective and the reader.”—Kirkus Reviews

“Intricate plot and well-developed characters.”—Booklist

“Memorable. . . . Skalka writes with unusually rich detail about her story’s setting and with unflinching empathy for her characters.”—Publishers Weekly

“Sheriff Cubiak makes an interesting hero, with his big-city background and his small-town appreciation.”—Mystery Suspense Reviews

“Will give mystery lovers food for thought along with the pleasure of reading a well-crafted book.”—Chicago Book Review, Best Books of the Year

PATRICIA SKALKA is the author of the Dave Cubiak Door County Mystery series, also including _Death Stalks Door County_ and _Death in Cold Water_. A former writer for _Reader’s Digest_, she presents writing workshops throughout the United States and divides her time between Chicago and Door County, Wisconsin.

“Vividly captures the beauty of a remote Wisconsin peninsula that will attract readers of regional mysteries. Also recommended for fans of William Kent Krueger, Nevada Barr, and Mary Logue.”—Library Journal, starred review

Midwest tour: Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin

ALSO BY PATRICIA SKALKA

Death Stalks Door County

Death in Cold Water
CLOTH $24.95
A History of Badger Baseball

The Rise and Fall of America’s Pastime at the University of Wisconsin

STEVEN D. SCHMITT

Foreword by Allan H. (Bud) Selig

Tales and stats from 120 years of varsity baseball

For more than a century, the University of Wisconsin fielded baseball teams. This comprehensive history combines colorful stories from the archives, interviews with former players and coaches, a wealth of historic photographs, and the statistics beloved by fans of the game. The earliest intercollegiate varsity sport at Wisconsin, the baseball team was founded in 1870, less than a decade after the start of the Civil War. It dominated its first league, made an unprecedented trip to Japan in 1909, survived Wisconsin’s chilly spring weather, two world wars, and perennial budget crises, producing some of the finest players in Big Ten history—and more than a few major leaguers. Fan traditions included torchlight parades, kazoos, and the student band playing “A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight” as early as 1901.

There is painful history here, too. African Americans played on Wisconsin’s first Big Ten championship team in 1902, including team captain Julian Ware, but there were none on the team between 1904 and 1960. Heartbreaking to many fans was the 1991 decision to discontinue baseball as a varsity sport at the university. Today, Wisconsin is the only member of the Big Ten conference without a men’s baseball team.

Appendixes provide details of team records and coaches, All Big Ten and All American selections, Badgers in the major leagues, and Badgers in the amateur free-agent draft.

STEVEN D. SCHMITT is a former news and sports reporter for Wisconsin newspapers and radio stations. He writes the blog Home Run Historical Research and is a member of the Society for American Baseball Research, the Old-Time Ballplayers Association of Wisconsin, and the Milwaukee Braves Historical Association.

OF RELATED INTEREST

A Summer Up North: Henry Aaron and the Legend of Eau Claire Baseball

Jerry Poling

ISBN 978-0-299-18184-0

PAPER $19.95

Lords of the Ring: The Triumph and Tragedy of College Boxing’s Greatest Team

Doug Moe

PAPER $24.95

“A celebration of the history, tradition, and legacy of the now extinct Wisconsin Badgers baseball program that will ensure its spirit lives on for decades to come.”

—William Povletich, author of Milwaukee Braves: Heroes and Heartbreak

“A remarkable and outstanding achievement. Here is Badger baseball season by season, the highlights, the heroes, and the drama from more than one hundred years of baseball.”

—Bud Selig, former Commissioner of Baseball, from the foreword
Now in Paperback

The Blind Masseuse
A Traveler’s Memoir from Costa Rica to Cambodia

ALDEN JONES

★ IndieFab Gold Medalist for Travel Essays
★ Independent Publisher Book Award Gold Medalist for Travel Essays
★ Publishers Weekly, A Traveler’s Library, and Huffington Post, Top Ten Travel Books
★ PEN/Diamonstein-Spielvogel Award for the Art of the Essay, finalist
★ North American Travel Journalists Book Award, finalist

“Engaging. . . . Jones celebrates the impulse to wander and recognizes the value in savoring vagabondage.” — Kirkus Reviews

“More than a simple travelogue, Jones chronicles her experiences in each culture while pondering her place as a citizen of the world.” — Boston Globe

“A mesmerizing travelogue [and] a thoughtful meditation on the conflicting roles of a traveler.” — Shelf Awareness

With sharp insight and stylish prose, Alden Jones recounts her travels in Costa Rica, Bolivia, Nicaragua, Cuba, Burma, Cambodia, Egypt, and around the world on a ship. Is there a right or wrong way to travel? The Blind Masseuse suggests that there is, but that it’s not always black and white.

ALDEN JONES has lived, worked, and traveled in more than forty countries. She teaches creative writing and cultural studies at Emerson College in Boston. Her story collection, Unaccompanied Minors, won the New American Fiction Prize, the Lascaux Book Prize, and an Independent Publisher Book Award in Short Fiction. Her newest book is Cheryl Strayed’s “Wild”: Afterwords.

“Smart and thoughtful, but also Jones is cackle-for-days hilarious and the book is a page-turner from second one, when she’s out walking in the dark in her village and bumps into a cow. Please, everyone, read this book!” — Huffington Post

• Author events in New England and New York

TRAVEL / MEMOIR
MARCH | LC: 2013014543 G
192 PP. | 5½ × 8¼
ISBN 978-0-299-29574-5 | PAPER | $19.95

OF RELATED INTEREST

Inspired Journeys: Travel Writers in Search of the Muse
Edited by Brian Bouldrey
ISBN 978-0-299-30940-4
CASEBOUND $24.95

The Phantom of Thomas Hardy
Floyd Skloot
ISBN 978-0-299-31040-0
CASEBOUND $24.95
The Black Penguin
ANDREW EVANS

An outcast gay Mormon travels from his Washington, DC, home to Antarctica—by bus

“The exterior and interior landscapes are meticulously described, moving, and often totally unexpected. Compulsive reading.”—Tim Cahill, author of A Wolverine Is Eating My Leg

A devout young boy in rural Ohio, Andrew Evans had his life mapped for him: baptism, mission, Brigham Young University, temple marriage, and children of his own. But as an awkward gay kid, bullied and bored, he escaped into the glossy pages of National Geographic and the wide promise of the world atlas. The Black Penguin is Evans’s memoir, travel tale, and love story of his eventual journey to the farthest reaches of the map, a wild yet touching adventure across some of the most astonishing landscapes on Earth.

Ejected from church and shunned by his family as a young man, Evans embarks on an ambitious overland journey halfway across the world. Riding public transportation, he crosses swamps, deserts, mountains, and jungles, slowly approaching his lifelong dream and ultimate goal: Antarctica. With each new mile comes laughter, pain, unexpected friendship, true weirdness, unsettling realities, and some hair-raising moments that eventually lead to a singular discovery on a remote beach at the bottom of the world.

Evans’s 12,000-mile voyage becomes a soulful quest to balance faith, family, and self, reminding us that, in the end, our lives are defined by the roads we take, the places we touch, and those we hold nearest.

ANDREW EVANS has completed more than thirty assignments for National Geographic, reporting from all seven continents. He is the author of the Bradt travel guides Iceland and Ukraine and lives in Washington, DC.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Treehab: Tales from My Natural, Wild Life
Bob Smith
CLOTH $24.95

A Thin Bright Line
Lucy Jane Bledsoe
CLOTH $26.95
The Vigilante Echo
How Failures of Justice Inspire Lawlessness
PAUL H. ROBINSON AND SARAH M. ROBINSON

When citizens lose confidence in the police and courts

Vigilantes have long been vilified, often deservedly. But what about those who take the law into their own hands only after the criminal justice system has failed? The Deacons of Defense guarded blacks and civil rights workers in the 1960s South. The Lavender Panthers countered gaybashers in 1970s San Francisco. Throughout history, crimes and many other vigilantes have tried to protect their communities when the police or courts would not.

Sadly, argue Paul and Sarah Robinson, while some vigilantism may be morally justified, even the best of intentions can spiral out of control, further eroding public confidence. They suggest that even more destructive than street vigilantes are “shadow vigilantes”: ordinary citizens who quietly subvert and pervert the criminal justice system by refusing to report a crime, help investigators, or convict offenders. If vigilante action is a cry for justice, it triggers a series of echoes that lead to more systemic failures.

PAUL H. ROBINSON is the Colin S. Diver Professor of Law at the University of Pennsylvania. His many books include Would You Convict?, Criminal Law Conversations, and Pirates, Prisoners, and Lepers: Lessons from Life Outside the Law. SARAH M. ROBINSON is a writer and researcher.
The Pox Lover
An Activist’s Decade in New York and Paris

ANNE-CHRISTINE D’ADESKY

Literary memoir, reportage, activist exposé, travelogue, and dishy gossip

“A haunting contribution to the record of the AIDS era.”—Laura Flanders, author of Bushwomen: Tales of a Cynical Species

The Pox Lover is a personal history of the turbulent 1990s by a pioneering American AIDS journalist, lesbian activist, and daughter of French-Haitian elites. In an account that is by turns searing, hectic, and funny, Anne-christine d’Adesky remembers “the poxed generation” of AIDS—their lives, their battles, and their determination to find love and make art in the heartbreaking years before lifesaving protease drugs arrived.

D’Adesky takes us through a fast-changing New York: squatter protests lead to all-night drag and art-dance parties, the fun-loving Lesbian Avengers organize dyke marches, and the protest group ACT UP stages public funerals. Traveling as a journalist to Paris, an insomniac d’Adesky trolls the Seine, encountering waves of exiles fleeing violence in the Balkans, Haiti, and Rwanda. As the last of the French Nazis stand trial and the new National Front rises in the polls, d’Adesky digs into her aristocratic family’s roots in Vichy France and colonial Haiti. This is a testament with a message for every generation: grab at life and love, connect with others, fight for justice, keep despair at bay, and remember.

ANNE-CHRISTINE D’ADESKY is an investigative journalist and documentary filmmaker who reported on the global AIDS epidemic for New York Native, OUT, The Nation, and The Village Voice. She received the first Award of Courage from amfAR, the Foundation for AIDS Research. She was an early member of ACT UP and cofounder of the Lesbian Avengers. Her books include Beyond Shock: Charting the Landscape of Sexual Violence in Post-Quake Haiti and Moving Mountains: The Race to Treat Global AIDS.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Loss within Loss: Artists in the Age of AIDS
Edited by Edmund White
PAPER $19.95

Romaine Brooks: A Life
Cassandra Langer
CLOTH $26.95

“Reminiscent of the luscious lesbian literature of the Parisian past, but propelled into the era of AIDS, ACT UP, and the Lesbian Avengers. D’Adesky’s memoir also reveals her family’s role in French colonialism, raising compelling questions about privilege, survival, homophobia, and dislocation.”—Sarah Schulman, author of The Cosmopolitans

“A necessary book. We need such a chronicle.”—Felice Picano, author of Like People in History

• National tour: East Coast, West Coast, and New Orleans
Yooper Talk

Dialect as Identity in Michigan’s Upper Peninsula

KATHRYN A. REMLINGER
Foreword by Joseph Salmons and James P. Leary

Holy wah! So ya panked it with yer swampers, eh?

Yooper Talk is a fresh and significant contribution to understanding regional language and culture in North America. The Upper Peninsula of Michigan—known as "the UP"—is historically, geographically, and culturally distinct. Struggles over land, labor, and language during the last 150 years have shaped the variety of English spoken by resident Yoopers, as well as how they are viewed by outsiders.

Drawing on sixteen years of fieldwork, including interviews with seventy-five lifelong residents of the UP, Kathryn Remlinger examines how the idea of a unique Yooper dialect emerged. Considering UP English in relation to other regional dialects and their speakers, she looks at local identity, literacy practices, media representations, language attitudes, notions of authenticity, economic factors, tourism, and contact with immigrant and Native American languages. The book also explores how a dialect becomes a recognizable and valuable commodity: Yooper talk (or "Yoopanese") is emblazoned on t-shirts, flags, postcards, coffee mugs, and bumper stickers.

Yooper Talk explains linguistic concepts with entertaining examples for general readers and also contributes to interdisciplinary discussions of dialect and identity in sociolinguistics, anthropology, dialectology, and folklore.

KATHRYN REMLINGER is a professor of linguistics in the Department of English at Grand Valley State University in Allendale, Michigan.

"Although humorous songs poke fun at Yoopers’ words and customs, Remlinger takes this place and its people very seriously. She explains how history, ethnicity, environment, economic changes, tourism, and especially language have created a colorful and distinctive regional dialect and identity.”—Larry Lankton, Hollowed Ground: Copper Mining and Community Building on Lake Superior

OF RELATED INTEREST

Bloodstoppers and Bearwalkers: Folk Traditions of Michigan’s Upper Peninsula
Richard M. Dorson; edited and with an introduction by James P. Leary
PAPER $24.95

Wisconsin Talk: Linguistic Diversity in the Badger State
Edited by Thomas Purnell, Eric Raimy, and Joseph Salmons
PAPER $24.95
Pinery Boys
Songs and Songcatching in the Lumberjack Era

EDITED BY FRANZ RICKABY WITH GRETCHEN DYKSTRA
AND JAMES P. LEARY

A landmark collection of lumberjack songs, with new annotations and biography

“[Rickaby] was the first to put the singing lumberjack into an adequate record and was of pioneering stuff... His book renders the big woods, not with bizarre hokum and studied claptrap... but with the fidelity of an unimpeachable witness.”—Carl Sandburg

As the heyday of the lumber camps faded, a young scholar named Franz Rickaby set out to find songs from shanty boys, river drivers, and sawmill hands in the Upper Midwest. Shortly before his groundbreaking and much-praised Ballads and Songs of the Shanty Boy was published in 1926, Rickaby died, leaving later folklorists, cultural historians, and folksong enthusiasts with little knowledge of his life and other unpublished research.

Pinery Boys now incorporates, commemorates, contextualizes, and complements Rickaby’s early work. It includes an introduction and annotations throughout by James P. Leary and an engaging biography by Rickaby’s granddaughter Gretchen Dykstra. Central to this edition are the original fifty-one songs that Rickaby published—including “Jack Haggerty’s Flat River Girl,” “The Little Brown Bulls,” “Ole from Norway,” “The Red Iron Ore,” and “Morrissey and the Russian Sailor”—plus fourteen additional songs selected to represent the varied collecting Rickaby did beyond the lumber camps.

FRANZ RICKABY (1889–1925) was educated at Knox College and Harvard University and taught at the University of North Dakota. GRETCHEN DYKSTRA was the founding president of the National 9/11 Memorial Foundation. JAMES P. LEARY is professor emeritus of folklore and Scandinavian studies at the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

OF RELATED INTEREST

The Tamburitza Tradition: From the Balkans to the American Midwest
Richard March
PAPER $34.95 S

So Ole Says to Lena: Folk Humor of the Upper Midwest
Compiled and edited by James P. Leary
PAPER $21.95

MUSIC / FOLKLORE / HISTORY—U.S.
MAY
328 PP. | 6 X 9 | 21 B/W PHOTOS
ISBN 978-0-299-31264-0 | PAPER | $25.95

Languages and Folklore of the Upper Midwest
Joseph Salmons and James P. Leary, Series Editors

“A long-awaited reissue of Franz Rickaby’s pioneering 1926 work, possibly the finest scholarly collection of lumberjack songs, now augmented by Gretchen Dykstra’s revealing account of her grandfather’s fascinating and ultimately tragic life.”—Jens Lund, former director of the Washington State Folklife Council

• Events and concerts in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and New York
“Simultaneously dazzling, playful, witty, goofy, hilarious, and profound, Partially Excited States carries us through our past into the present and even into our future somewhere in outer space. This is a mature book that manages to be idiosyncratic in its thinking but universal in its concerns.”

—Susan Mitchell

Charles Hood shows us a strange and perplexing world that runs on sadness, microbrews, snack cakes, and inexplicable magic. Brimming with natural history and bright flashes of language, his poems focus on transformations. He takes us from Paleolithic caves to modern movie theaters, and along the way we fix time machines with Tom Hanks, enter a Rousseau painting, and collect diamonds from the moons of Neptune.

My, what ugly feet they had, they will think in 100 years when salvage crews on the Sea of Tranquility plaster cast our footprints. Back then my father had dopey ears like LBJ. In the 1960s you could usually leave your keys in the car, it would be okay. I knew grown-ups named Butch and Dutch. It was Sunday, cooling marine layer, dew point 61 degrees, July 1969, the astronauts waiting for me inside the house, but I was behind cinderblock saying Mister, please. Nixon wasn’t yet a fallen angel. Janis Joplin was still alive, doing 200 dollars a day of smack. Gasoline was free. Back then walking was still a normal way to get around: I used to cut behind the SP tracks, back when we all were happy just to be lit up by the sky all day and night. I remember 1969 and the one before . . .

—excerpt from “The Earth as Seen from Earth” © Charles Hood. All rights reserved.

CHARLES HOOD is a writer of poetry, fiction, and creative nonfiction, a photographer, and an artist. His many books include Mouth, South, and Río de Dios: 13 Histories of the Los Angeles River. He lives in Palmdale, California.
Winner of the Brittingham Prize in Poetry, selected by Susan Mitchell

You, Beast

NICK LANTZ

“Poem by poem, book by book, Nick Lantz is becoming one of our time’s best poets. He knows the blades and shrieks and pleasures and sweet sick twists in our human hearts, and this bestiary forces us to look, hard and long, in our own mirrors. ‘Polar Bear Attacks Woman . . . Horrifying Vid (Click to Watch)’ is a poem for this moment in the way Auden and Yeats and Rich and Dickey and Komunyakaa gave us poems for their moments.”

—Albert Goldbarth

With macabre humor, You, Beast explores the roots and limits of human empathy. Nick Lantz examines our strange, absurd, and often brutal relationship with other animals, from roaches scuttling across the kitchen floor to pigs whose heart valves can replace our own. In poems ranging from found text to villanelles, and from short plays to fables, this lyric collection tracks the troubled ways we define our humanity through mythology, language, politics, art, and food.

Years ago, I watch a video: a woman being attacked by a polar bear at the zoo. The bear has stuck its head through the bars of its cage. It grips the woman’s thigh in its mouth, tries to pull her through the gap in the bars. Two men run to the woman’s aid, striking the bear on the face with flimsy branches. The bear does not seem to notice. And every time—every time—I forget for a moment that someone is still standing there, filming the whole thing.

The polar bear’s name is Binky. (Ceci n’est pas un ours.) The title of the video is something like “Polar Bear Attacks Woman . . . Horrifying Vid (Click to Watch).” And I do—I click to watch.

—excerpt from “Polar Bear Attacks Woman . . . Horrifying Vid (Click to Watch)” © Nick Lantz. All rights reserved.

NICK LANTZ is the author of The Lightning That Strikes the Neighbors’ House, We Don’t Know We Don’t Know, and How to Dance as the Roof Caves In. He teaches at Sam Houston State University and lives in Huntsville, Texas.

OF RELATED INTEREST

The Lightning That Strikes the Neighbors’ House

Nick Lantz

ISBN 978-0-299-23584-0

PAPER $14.95

The Book of Hulga

Rita Mae Reese

PAPER $14.95
Winner of the Four Lakes Prize in Poetry

The Apollonia Poems

JUDITH VOLLMER

“This book is a trip, or many trips. Here is the creative mind at work and play—its geological layers uncovered, lifetimes and cultures revisited, offered to us in Judith Vollmer’s characteristic voice: curious, tender, and flinty, with its own grave and ethereal music.”—Alicia Ostriker

Traversing time, cities, and voices, The Apollonia Poems finds its central aesthetic in place: physical and locational, perceptual and imagined. Judith Vollmer’s poet-wanderer explores the layered terrains of urban environments from Pittsburgh to the Mediterranean to the Carpathians. Employing narratives and lyrics, songs and reports, and a short verse-play in three voices, Vollmer’s meditations are by turns elegiac and celebratory, colloquial and lyrical.

No one way to be a woman
No one way to be a city
But I know your many cities, whether Greek, Czech, Polish, or Slovenian,
I know your copper bracelets,
your rivers of destruction.

No way to save yourself & no one to save you, 249 A.D. Alexandria;
Bernardino’s later portrait: in your right hand
a book & colossal pincers
to vanquish torturers;
in your left, the martyr’s palm frond.
—excerpt from “Copper, Gold, Olives, Wine” © Judith Vollmer. All rights reserved.

JUDITH VOLLMER is the author of the award-winning poetry collections Level Green, The Door Open to the Fire, Black Butterfly, Reactor, and The Water Books. She teaches in the MFA Program in Poetry & Poetry in Translation at Drew University and has been an artist in residence at Yaddo and a visiting artist at the American Academy in Rome. She lives in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

ALSO BY JUDITH VOLLMER

Reactor
PAPER $14.95

Level Green
ISBN 978-0-299-12754-1
PAPER $14.95
Once you have lived on the land, been a partner with its moods, secrets, and seasons, you cannot leave. The living land remembers, touching you in unguarded moments, saying, “I am here. You are a part of me.”

“Ben Logan is strikingly successful in recalling his own boyhood world, a lonely ridge farm in southwestern Wisconsin. . . . He reviews his growing-up years in the 1920s and ‘30s less with nostalgia than with a naturalist’s eye for detail, wary of the distortions of memory and sentiment.”—Christian Science Monitor

“What drew me so irresistibly through The Land Remembers? . . . It’s not nostalgia for my own past that [Logan] made me feel; it’s nostalgia for a world he makes me wish I’d known.”—New York Times Book Review

“A book that encourages the reader to listen to his own thoughts. . . . Some collective memory that says that this is all familiar, that we ourselves have experienced it.”—Time

This beloved American memoir is about a farm and its people, recollections of a boyhood in Wisconsin’s Driftless region. Ben Logan grew up on Seldom Seen Farm with his three brothers, father, mother, and hired hand Lyle. The boys discussed and argued and joked over the events around their farm, marked the seasons by the demands of the land, and tested each other and themselves.

BEN LOGAN (1920–2014) traveled as a merchant seaman and worked many years in New York as a novelist, lecturer, and writer/producer of films and television. He returned in the 1980s to Seldom Seen Farm in Wisconsin. The farm is now privately owned but has been preserved through a land trust with the Mississippi Valley Conservancy.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Crossing the Driftless: A Canoe Trip through a Midwestern Landscape
Lynne Diebel
PAPER $19.95

A Thousand Pieces of Paradise: Landscape and Property in the Kickapoo Valley
Lynne Heasley
PAPER $24.95 A
Force of Nature

George Fell, Founder of the Natural Areas Movement

ARTHUR MELVILLE PEARSON
Foreword by Peter R. Crane

How The Nature Conservancy and its movement originated

“The inspiring story of the innovative conservation institutions and legislation instigated by George Fell and his wife, Barbara, highlighted by The Nature Conservancy, arguably the largest environmental organization in the world.”—Stephen Laubach, author of Living a Land Ethic

Efforts to preserve wild places in the United States began with the allure of scenic grandeur: Yosemite, Yellowstone, the Grand Canyon. But what about the many significant natural sites too small or fragile to qualify as state or federal parks? George Fell was determined to save these places, too—prairie remnants, upland forests, sedge meadows and fens, ocean beaches, desert canyons, mountain creeks, bogs, caves and gorges, and the full spectrum of other habitats essential to biological diversity.

Force of Nature reveals how a failed civil servant, with few assets apart from his tenacity and vision, initiated the natural areas movement. In the boom years following World War II, as undeveloped lands were being mined, drained, or bulldozed, Fell transformed a loose band of ecologists into The Nature Conservancy, drove the passage of the influential Illinois Nature Preserves Act, and helped spark allied local and national conservation organizations in the United States and beyond.

ARTHUR MELVILLE PEARSON is the director of the Chicago Program at the Gaylord and Dorothy Donnelley Foundation, which helps protect and restore natural lands in the Chicago region and the Lowcountry of South Carolina. His writing has appeared frequently in the magazines Chicago Wilderness and Outdoor Illinois and in the blogs A Midewin Almanac and City Creatures.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Aldo Leopold: His Life and Work
Curt Meine
PAPER $29.95

The Man from Clear Lake: Earth Day Founder Senator Gaylord Nelson
Bill Christofferson
ISBN 978-0-299-19640-0
CLOTH $30.00
To Offer Compassion
A History of the Clergy Consultation Service on Abortion
DORIS ANDREA DIRKS AND PATRICIA A. RELF

Why Christian and Jewish clergy were frontline advocates for abortion rights in the 1960s

“This compelling history explores one of the twentieth century’s most unusual religious endeavors—the collective defiance of American clergy who were willing to help direct women to illegal but safe abortions. No previous account of the Clergy Consultation Service has told their whole story so thoroughly and vividly.”—Cynthia Gorney, author of Articles of Faith: A Frontline History of the Abortion Wars

In 1967, when abortion was either illegal or highly restricted in every U.S. state, a group of ministers and rabbis formed to counsel women with unwanted pregnancies—including referral to licensed physicians willing to perform the procedure. By 1973, when the Roe v. Wade court decision made abortion legal nationwide, the Clergy Consultation Service on Abortion (CCS) had spread from coast to coast, referred hundreds of thousands of women for safe abortions without a single fatality, become a medical consumer advocacy group, and opened its own clinic in New York City.

As religious leaders spoke out on issues of civil rights, peace, or poverty, CCS members were also called to action by the suffering of women who had approached them for help. Overwhelmingly male, white, affluent, and middle-aged, these mainline Protestant and Jewish clergy were nonetheless outspoken advocates for the rights of women, particularly poor women. To Offer Compassion is a detailed history of this unique and largely forgotten movement, drawing on extensive interviews with original participants and on primary documents from the CCS’s operations.

DORIS ANDREA DIRKS is a senior academic planner with the University of Wisconsin System Administration. PATRICIA A. RELF is a freelance writer.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Cry Rape: The True Story of One Woman’s Harrowing Quest for Justice
Bill Lueders
PAPER $19.95

Women and Health in America: Historical Readings
Edited by Judith Walzer Leavitt
ISBN 978-0-299-15964-1
PAPER $29.95 X

In May 2017, the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of CCS will be commemorated in New York City.
Understanding and Teaching U.S. Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender History

Second Edition

EDITED BY LEILA J. RUPP AND SUSAN K. FREEMAN

★ Choice Outstanding Academic Book; Winner of the Lambda Award for LGBT Anthology

“A terrific book for anyone teaching U.S. history to high school or college students. It is designed to explain why, and especially how, educators can integrate LGBT history into their existing courses. The volume contains superb essays by scholars and teachers that speak to pedagogy, sources, and methods, and includes seventeen topical essays that span the breadth of U.S. history, from colonial same-sex experiences to contemporary same-sex marriage.”—American Historian

“Contributors deftly tie LGBT content to the broader goals of teaching history, not simply making visible the lives of everyday queer people but prompting critical engagement.”—Publishers Weekly, starred review

Taking into account recent historic changes, this second edition updates the essays on the Supreme Court, same-sex marriage, the Right, and trans history.

LEILA J. RUPP is the author of many books, including A Desired Past: A Short History of Same-Sex Love in America. She is a professor of feminist studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

SUSAN K. FREEMAN is an associate professor and chair of the Department of Gender and Women's Studies at Western Michigan University. She is the author of Sex Goes to School.

OF RELATED INTEREST

In a New Century: Essays on Queer History, Politics, and Community Life
John D’Emilio
PAPER $27.95 S

Understanding and Teaching American Slavery
Edited by Bethany Jay and Cynthia Lynn Lyerly
PAPER $34.95 A
Understanding and Teaching the Age of Revolutions
EDITED BY BEN MARSH AND MIKE RAPPORT

Classroom-tested teaching approaches to controversial topics

To learn about the “Age of Revolutions” in Europe and the Americas is to engage with the emergence of the modern world. In the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, nations were founded, old empires collapsed, and new ones arose. Struggles for emancipation—whether from royal authority, colonial rule, slavery, or patriarchy—inspired both hopes and fears. This book, designed for university and secondary school teachers, provides up-to-date content and perspectives, classroom-tested techniques, innovative ideas, and an exciting variety of pathways to introduce students to this complex era of history.

The volume includes chapters on sources and methods for stimulating student debate and learning, including Tom Paine’s Common Sense, the Haitian Declaration of Independence, and other key documents; role-playing games; visual arts and culture; and music, including opera and popular songs. Other chapters delve into specific themes, including revolution and riot, revolutionary terror, enlightenment, gender, slavery, nationalism, environment and climate, and the roles of politically excluded groups. Collectively, the contributions ensure a broad Atlantic scope, discussing the revolutions in Britain’s North American colonies, Haiti, and Latin America, and European revolutions including France, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

BEN MARSH is a senior lecturer in history at the University of Kent and the author of Georgia’s Frontier Women: Female Fortunes in a Southern Colony, winner of the Malcolm Bell, Jr., and Muriel Barrow Bell Award.

MIKE RAPPORT is a reader in modern European history at the University of Glasgow and the author of several books, including 1848: Year of Revolution and The Unruly City: Paris, London, and New York in the Age of Revolution.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Understanding and Teaching the Cold War
Edited by Matthew Masur
CASEBOUND $34.95 A

Understanding and Teaching the Vietnam War
Edited by John Day Tully, Matthew Masur, and Brad Austin
ISBN 978-0-299-29414-4
PAPER $29.95 A
Wisconsin and the Shaping of American Law

JOSEPH A. RANNEY

A guide to the complex history of state laws and their importance to all Americans

State laws affect nearly every aspect of our daily lives—our safety, personal relationships, and business dealings—but receive less scholarly attention than federal laws and courts. Joseph A. Ranney looks at how state laws have evolved and shaped American history, through the lens of the historically influential state of Wisconsin.

Organized around periods of social need and turmoil, the book considers the role of states as legal laboratories in establishing American authority west of the Appalachians, in both implementing and limiting Jacksonian reforms and in navigating legal crises before and during the Civil War—including Wisconsin’s invocation of sovereignty to defy federal fugitive slave laws. Ranney also surveys judicial revolts, the reforms of the Progressive era, and legislative responses to struggles for civil rights by immigrants, women, Native Americans, and minorities in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Since the 1960s, battles have been fought at the state level over such issues as school vouchers, voting, and abortion rights.

JOSEPH A. RANNEY is the Adrian P. Schoone Fellow in Wisconsin Law and Legal Institutions at Marquette University Law School and a partner with the firm DeWitt Ross & Stevens in Madison, Wisconsin. He is the author of several books, including Trusting Nothing to Providence: A History of Wisconsin’s Legal System, honored by the American Library Association as a notable book on state and local government.

“Not simply about Wisconsin’s legal history, for Ranney covers the sweep of state laws in American history from the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 to recent legal questions of the twenty-first century. Impressively researched and invitingly written, this is a unique introduction to our states as laboratories of democracy.”

—Lloyd C. Gardner, Rutgers University

• Author tour in Wisconsin

OF RELATED INTEREST

More than They Bargained For: Scott Walker, Unions, and the Fight for Wisconsin
Jason Stein and Patrick Marley
ISBN 978-0-299-29384-0
PAPER $26.95

John Bascom and the Origins of the Wisconsin Idea
J. David Hoeveler
CASEBOUND $44.95 S
If You Don’t Laugh You’ll Cry
The Occupational Humor of White Wisconsin Prison Workers
CLAIRE SCHMIDT

A deeply humanistic ethnography of prison workers and their dark humor

America is fascinated by prisons and prison culture, but few Americans understand what it is like to work in corrections. Claire Schmidt, whose extended family includes three generations of Wisconsin prison workers, introduces readers to penitentiary officers and staff as they share stories, debate the role of corrections in American racial politics and social justice, and talk about the important function of humor in their jobs.

In a state that locks up a disproportionate number of men and women of color, white prison workers occupy a complicated social position as representatives of institutional authority and bearers of social stigma. The job, by turns dangerous, dull, or dehumanizing, is aided by a quick wit, comedic timing, and verbal agility. The men and women who do this work rely on storytelling, practical jokes, and sarcasm to bond with each other, build flexible relationships with inmates, and create personal identities that work in and out of prison. Schmidt shows how this humorous occupational culture both upholds and undermines prisons as social institutions.

Issues of power and race, as well as sex and gender, infuse Schmidt’s groundbreaking analysis, and she also engages with current scholarship about identity, occupational folklore, and family narrative. This eye-opening, provocative book reveals the invisible culture, beliefs, and aesthetics embedded in workplace humor.

CLAIRE SCHMIDT is a folklorist and assistant professor of English at Missouri Valley College.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Michael M. O’Hear
CASEBOUND $44.95 A

The Last Laugh: Folk Humor, Celebrity Culture, and Mass-Mediated Disasters in the Digital Age
Trevor J. Blank
ISBN 978-0-299-29204-1
PAPER $24.95 S
Whispers of Cruel Wrongs
The Correspondence of Louisa Jacobs and Her Circle, 1879–1911
EDITED BY MARY MAillard

A profound revelation of African American women’s lives after Reconstruction

Louisa Jacobs was the daughter of Harriet Jacobs, author of the famous autobiography Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl. That work included a heartbreakingly account of Harriet parting with six-year-old Louisa, taken away to the North by her white father. Now, rediscovered letters reveal the lives of Louisa and her circle and shed light on Harriet’s old age.

New voices call out from the lost world of nineteenth-century African American women in this annotated correspondence. Unidentified for nearly one hundred years, over seventy rare letters from Louisa Jacobs, Annie Purvis, and Charlotte Forten to their friend Eugenie Webb disclose the lives of these educated, resourceful women. Jacobs taught at Howard University, ran her own small business, advocated for civil rights, cared for her ailing mother, and worked for two federal agencies. Purvis, Forten, and Webb were descendants of some of Philadelphia’s earliest free black abolitionist families. Sustained by friendship and faith, these women created warm and sympathetic relationships, despite difficult family obligations and the racist strife that marked the post-Reconstruction era in Washington, Philadelphia, and New Jersey.

MARY MAillard is a documentary editor specializing in African American biography and antebellum women of the American South. She is the author of A Map of Time and Blood: An Introduction to the Skinner Family Papers, 1826–1850. She lives in Vancouver, Canada.

April 2017 is the centennial of Louisa Jacobs’s death

OF RELATED INTEREST

A Mysterious Life and Calling:
From Slavery to Ministry in South Carolina
Reverend Mrs. Charlotte S. Riley; edited with an introduction by Crystal J. Lucky
ISBN 978-0-299-30674-8
PAPER $24.95 S

Words of Witness:
Black Women’s Autobiography in the Post-Brown Era
Angela A. Ards
ISBN 978-0-299-30504-8
PAPER $26.95 A
Spirit Children
Illness, Poverty, and Infanticide in Northern Ghana
AARON R. DENHAM

No simple answers for infanticide

“A brilliant, sensitive, and moving book about the heartbreaking phenomenon of infanticide. This is a book to be taken seriously by hospital personnel, public health policymakers, NGO workers, and anyone interested in the fate of the world’s most vulnerable young children.”
—Alma Gottlieb, coauthor of A World of Babies

In parts of West Africa, some babies and toddlers are considered spirit children—nonhumans sent from the forest to cause misfortune and destroy the family. These are usually deformed or ailing infants, the very young whose births coincide with tragic events, or children who display unusual abilities. In some of these cases, families seek a solution in infanticide. Many others do not.

Refusing to generalize or oversimplify, Aaron R. Denham offers an ethnographic study of the spirit child phenomenon in Northern Ghana that considers medical, economic, religious, and political realities. He examines both the motivations of the families and the structural factors that lead to infanticide, framing these within the context of global public health. At the same time, he turns the lens on Western societies and the misunderstandings that prevail in discourse about this controversial practice. Engaging the complexity of the context, local meanings, and moral worlds of those confronting a spirit child, Denham offers visceral accounts of families’ life and death decisions.

AARON R. DENHAM is the director of the Master of Development Studies and Global Health program and a senior lecturer in anthropology at Macquarie University in Sydney, Australia. He formerly was a mental health provider for children and families, a fellow of the American Psychoanalytic Association, and a volunteer with Engineers Without Borders.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Tired of Weeping: Mother Love, Child Death, and Poverty in Guinea-Bissau
Jónína Einarsdóttir
ISBN 978-0-299-20134-0
PAPER $24.95 S

I Am Evelyn Amony: Reclaiming My Life from the Lord’s Resistance Army
Evelyn Amony; edited with an introduction by Erin Baines
PAPER $26.95
Written in Blood

Revolutionary Terrorism and Russian Literary Culture, 1861–1881

LYNN ELLEN PATYK

The roots of modern terrorism in the imaginations of Russia’s greatest writers

“Analyzing both word and deed, Patyk rewrites the history of modern terrorism showing why the Russian case was pivotal. A gripping story.”
—Susan Morrissey, author of Suicide and the Body Politic in Imperial Russia

Written in Blood offers a fundamentally new interpretation of the emergence of modern terrorism, arguing that it formed in the Russian literary imagination well before any shot was fired or bomb exploded. In March 1881, Russia stunned the world when a small band of revolutionaries calling themselves “terrorists” assassinated the Tsar-Liberator, Alexander II. Horrified Russians blamed the influence of European political and social ideas, while shocked Europeans perceived something new and distinctly Russian in a strategy of political violence that became known the world over as “terrorism” or “the Russian method.”

Lynn Ellen Patyk contends that the prototype for the terrorist was the Russian writer, whose seditious word was interpreted as an audacious deed—and a violent assault on autocratic authority. The interplay and interchangeability of word and deed, Patyk argues, laid the semiotic groundwork for the symbolic act of violence at the center of revolutionary terrorism. While demonstrating how literary culture fostered the ethos, pathos, and image of the revolutionary terrorist and terrorism, she spotlights Fyodor Dostoevsky and his “terrorism trilogy”—Crime and Punishment (1866), Demons (1870–73), and The Brothers Karamazov (1878–80)—as novels that uniquely illuminate terrorism’s methods and trajectory. Deftly combining riveting historical narrative with penetrating literary analysis of major and minor works, Patyk’s groundbreaking book reveals the power of the word to spawn deeds and the power of literature to usher new realities into the world.

LYNN ELLEN PATYK is an assistant professor of Russian at Dartmouth College.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Liberals under Autocracy: Modernization and Civil Society in Russia, 1866–1904
Anton A. Fedyaushin
PAPER $26.95 S

The First Epoch: The Eighteenth Century and the Russian Cultural Imagination
Luba Golburt
PAPER $29.95 S
The Soviet Union and the Gutting of the UN Genocide Convention

ANTON WEISS-WENDT

How political manipulations weakened the UN’s power to address abuses of human rights

“An absorbing and important contribution to the history of the Cold War, as well as to international law and its political uses.”—Peter H. Solomon Jr., author of Soviet Criminal Justice under Stalin

After the staggering horrors of World War II and the Holocaust, the United Nations resolved to prevent and punish the crime of genocide throughout the world. The resulting UN Genocide Convention treaty, however, was drafted, contested, and weakened in the midst of Cold War tensions and ideological struggles between the Soviet Union and the West.

Based on extensive archival research, Anton Weiss-Wendt reveals in detail how the political aims of the superpowers rendered the convention a weak instrument for addressing abuses against human rights. The Kremlin viewed the genocide treaty as a political document and feared repercussions. What the Soviets wanted most was to keep the subjugation of Eastern Europe and the vast system of forced labor camps out of the genocide discourse. The American Bar Association and Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, in turn, worried that the convention contained vague formulations that could be used against the United States, especially in relation to the plight of African Americans. Sidelined in the heated discussions, Weiss-Wendt shows, were humanitarian concerns for preventing future genocides.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Agents of Terror: Ordinary Men and Extraordinary Violence in Stalin’s Secret Police
Alexander Vatlin; edited, translated, and with an introduction by Seth Bernstein
CASEBOUND $64.95 A

Primed for Violence: Murder, Antisemitism, and Democratic Politics in Interwar Poland
Paul Brykczynski
ISBN 978-0-299-30700-4
CASEBOUND $65.00 S
Beyond the Monastery Walls
The Ascetic Revolution in Russian Orthodox Thought, 1814–1914

PATRICK LALLY MICHELSON

“Michelson’s groundbreaking study of discourses on asceticism makes a valuable contribution to the religious and intellectual history of both imperial Russia and Europe in the century prior to World War I.”
—William Wagner, Williams College

During Russia’s late imperial period, Orthodox churchmen, professionally trained theologians, and an array of social commentators sought to give meaning to Russian history and its supposed backwardness. Many found that meaning in asceticism. For some, ascetic religiosity prevented Russia from achieving its historical destiny. For others, it was the means by which the Russian people would realize the kingdom of God, thereby saving Holy Russia and the world from the satanic forces of the West.

Patrick Lally Michelson’s intellectual history of asceticism in Russian Orthodox thought traces the development of these competing arguments from the early nineteenth century to the early months of World War I. He demonstrates that this discourse was an imaginative interpretation of lived Orthodoxy, primarily meant to satisfy the ideological needs of Russian thinkers and Orthodox intellectuals as they responded to the socioeconomic, political, and cultural challenges of modernity.

PATRICK LALLY MICHELSON is an assistant professor of religious studies at Indiana University and the coeditor of Thinking Orthodox in Modern Russia.

OF RELATED INTEREST

Thinking Orthodox in Modern Russia: Culture, History, Context
Edited by Patrick Lally Michelson and Judith Deutsch Kornblatt
ISBN 978-0-299-29894-4
PAPER $29.95 S

Doubt, Atheism, and the Nineteenth-Century Russian Intelligentsia
Victoria Frede
PAPER $26.95 S
Silenced Voices
The Poetics of Speech in Ovid
BARTOLO A. NATOLI

Explores the poems of Ovid before and after his exile from Rome

Silenced Voices is a pointed examination of the loss of speech, exile from community, and memory throughout the literary corpus of the Roman poet Ovid. In his book-length poem Metamorphoses, characters are transformed in ways that include losing their power of human speech. In Tristia and Epistulae ex Ponto, poems written after Ovid’s exile from Rome in 8 CE, he represents himself as also having been transformed, losing his voice.

Bartolo A. Natoli provides a unique cross-reading of these works. He examines how the motifs and ideas articulated in the Metamorphoses provide the template for the poet’s representation of his own exile. Ovid depicts his transformation with an eye toward memory, reformulating how his exile would be perceived by his audience. His exilic poems are an attempt to recover the voice he lost and to reconnect with the community of Rome.

BARTOLO A. NATOLI is an assistant professor of classics at Randolph-Macon College.

“"A significant and distinctive contribution to Ovidian scholarship, tackling the issues of voice and silence in a comparative reading of Ovid’s varied works."” — Gianpiero Rosati, Scuola Normale Superiore, Pisa

Wisconsin Studies in Classics
Laura McClure, Mark Stansbury-O’Donnell, and Matthew Roller, Series Editors

Repeat Performances: Ovidian Repetition and the Metamorphoses
Edited by Laurel Fulkerson and Tim Stover
CASEBOUND $75.00 S

The Offense of Love: Ars Amatoria, Remedia Amoris, and Tristia 2
Ovid; a verse translation by Julia Dyson Hejduk
PAPER $19.95 S
Now in Paperback

From War to Genocide
Criminal Politics in Rwanda, 1990–1994

ANDRÉ GUICHAOUA
Translated by Don E. Webster, Foreword by Scott Straus

A landmark in the historiography of the Rwandan genocide
“Dispels myth after myth about the Rwandan genocide and Rwandan history.”—Washington Post

“Magisterial. . . . Guichaoua makes a compelling case that the scaling up of violence to genocidal levels was progressive and tied, at least in part, to the escalation of the civil war and the timid, ineffectual international response to the initial violence.”—Foreign Affairs

“A definitive account.”—Choice

ANDRÉ GUICHAOUA is a professor of sociology at the University of Paris 1 Pantheon-Sorbonne. He served as an expert witness on the Rwandan genocide before several courts and judicial bodies, including the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR). DON E. WEBSTER is a former senior legal counsel and prosecutor for the ICTR.

Now in Paperback

The Lima Inquisition
The Plight of Crypto-Jews in Seventeenth-Century Peru

ANA E. SCHAPOSCHNIK

“An in-depth look at the trials of the Great Complicity in the 1630s, during which almost 100 people, overwhelmingly men and women of Portuguese origin, were accused of being crypto-Jews and detained and tried by the Inquisition.”—Choice

The Inquisition office operated in Peru from 1570 to 1820. Ana E. Schaposchnik provides a deeply researched history of the Inquisition’s Lima tribunal, focusing in particular on the cases of persons put under trial for crypto-Judaism. She contends that the tribunal’s goal, more than volume or frequency in punishing heretics, was to discipline and shape culture in Peru.

ANA E. SCHAPOSCHNIK is an associate professor of history at DePaul University.
Now in Paperback

Amending the Past

Europe’s Holocaust Commissions and the Right to History

ALEXANDER KARN

“Historical commissions, Karn argues, have brought expert historical practice to bear on complex questions, adding new meaning to facts that have either been debated or glossed over.”—Choice

During the 1990s and early 2000s in Europe, more than fifty historical commissions were created to confront, discuss, and document the genocide of the Holocaust and to address some of its unresolved injustices. Alexander Karn analyzes more than a dozen Holocaust commissions—in Germany, Switzerland, France, Poland, Austria, Latvia, Lithuania, and elsewhere—to examine in depth the complexities of reckoning with past atrocities and large-scale human rights violations.

ALEXANDER KARN is an assistant professor in the Department of History at Colgate University. He is the coeditor of Taking Wrongs Seriously: Apologies and Reconciliation.

---

Now in Paperback

Shaping the New Man

Youth Training Regimes in Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany

ALESSIO PONZIO

“A nuanced story of the delicate and volatile relationship between interwar Europe’s two fascist regimes.”—Choice

Alessio Ponzio uncovers the largely untold story of the training and education of boys and their adult leaders in the Italian Fascist and German Nazi regimes. He dissects similarities, influences, and differences between the youth organizations, providing valuable new perspectives on their often reciprocal relationships.

ALESSIO PONZIO received his PhD in history and politics from the Università Roma Tre and is now pursuing a degree at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.
I Hear Voices: A Memoir of Love, Death, and the Radio

Jean Feraca

PAPER $19.95

Lithium Jesus: A Memoir of Mania

Charles Monroe-Kane

ISBN 978-0299-31000-4

CLOTH $24.95

Now in Paperback

9XM Talking

WHA Radio and the Wisconsin Idea

RANDALL DAVIDSON

Winner of the Wisconsin Historical Society's award for best book on Wisconsin history

“Rich detail about the landmark educational [radio] station, much of it previously untold.”—Journal of Broadcasting and Electronic Media

“An engaging, even engrossing, narrative about the station’s pioneering work in broadcasting. . . . A reader witnesses . . . the struggles that small and educational broadcasters faced in the early years in what was nearly a constant battle to maintain a foothold in the frequency spectrum.”

—Journalism History

This is the fascinating history of the innovative work of Wisconsin’s educational radio stations, from the first broadcast by experimental station 9XM at the University of Wisconsin to the network of stations known today as Wisconsin Public Radio. Randall Davidson provides the first comprehensive history of the University of Wisconsin radio station, WHA; affiliated state-owned station, WLBL; and the post–World War II FM stations that formed the WPR network. Davidson describes how, with homemade equipment and ideas developed from scratch, 9XM became a tangible example of “the Wisconsin Idea,” bringing the educational riches of the university to all the state’s residents.

RANDALL DAVIDSON worked for Wisconsin Public Radio as a news producer and news anchor for eighteen years, also serving as the network’s chief announcer and unofficial historian. He is now director of radio services and a senior lecturer in Radio TV Film at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh. He lives in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.
UW Press Journals Are in Print and Online

Online editions of most of our journals are available at uwpress.org and offer:

- Searching across full text, abstracts, titles, and tables of contents
- Access to additional back issues, including all back issues of Landscape Journal, Native Plants Journal, and Ecological Restoration
- Table of contents alert services
- Lists of most-cited and most-read articles
- Access to FREE sample issues

Most journals are available through Project MUSE and/or the JSTOR archive. Selected special issues are also available as e-books, without a subscription. See individual listings for details.

New!

Constitutional Studies
Edited by Howard Schweber, University of Wisconsin–Madison
New Open Access Journal
Constitutional Studies publishes work from a variety of disciplines that addresses the theory and practice of constitutional government. The journal seeks work of the highest quality that expands our understanding of constitutional democratic institutions and the bases for their legitimacy, practices of constitutional self-government, formal and informal constitutional systems, approaches to constitutional jurisprudence, and related subjects. We welcome submissions from a comparative, empirical, historical, normative, or analytic perspective from scholars across the range of the social sciences and humanities. All submissions will be subjected to double-blind peer review.

African Economic History
Edited by Mariana Candido, University of Notre Dame; Toyin Falola, University of Texas at Austin; Jennifer Lofkrantz, Saint Mary’s College of California; and Paul E. Lovejoy, York University
African Economic History was founded in 1974 by the African Studies Program at the University of Wisconsin and is also associated with the Harriet Tubman Institute for Research on Africa and its Diasporas, York University. The journal publishes scholarly essays in English and French on economic history of African societies from precolonial times to the present. It features research in a variety of fields and time periods, including studies on labor, slavery, trade and commercial networks, economic transformations, colonialism, migration, development policies, social and economic inequalities, and poverty. The audience includes historians, economists, anthropologists, sociologists, political scientists, policymakers, and a range of other scholars interested in African economies—past and present.

American Orthoptic Journal
Edited by Dr. James Reynolds, M.D., SUNY at Buffalo
American Orthoptic Journal enables those in the orthoptic and ophthalmologic communities to keep abreast of current clinical practice and research in ocular motility. The journal serves as a forum for the presentation of new material in the fields of amblyopia, strabismus, and pediatric ophthalmology. Each issue also includes papers presented at regional and national meetings, the Richard G. Scobee Memorial Lecture, and the Strabismus Symposium at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology. AOJ also publishes abstracts of literature from British, French, German, and Spanish sources.

To reserve ad space, contact:
Journals Advertising Manager
(608) 263-0534
journal.ads@uwpress.wisc.edu
Also available as e-books
Also available through JSTOR®
Also available on Project MUSE®
UW Press, Journals Division
journals@uwpress.wisc.edu
Ph: (608) 263-0668
Fax: (608) 263-1173
ArcticAnthropology
Edited by Christyann Darwent, University of California, Davis

ArcticAnthropology, founded in 1962 by Chester S. Chard, is an international journal devoted to the study of Old and New World northern cultures and peoples. Archaeology, ethnology, physical anthropology, and related disciplines are represented, with emphasis on studies of specific cultures of the arctic, subarctic, and contiguous regions of the world; the peopling of the New World and relationships between New World and Eurasian cultures of the circumpolar zone; contemporary problems and culture change among northern peoples; and new directions in interdisciplinary northern research.

EcologicalRestoration
Edited by Steven N. Handel, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey

EcologicalRestoration is a forum for people interested in all areas of ecological restoration. It features the technical and biological aspects of restoring landscapes, as well as emerging professional issues, the role of education, evolving theories of postmodern humans and their environment, land-use policy, the science of collaboration, and more. The journal offers peer-reviewed feature articles, short notes, and book reviews as well as abstracts of pertinent work published elsewhere.

GhanaStudies
Edited by Carina Ray, Brandeis University; Dr. Kofi Baku, University of Ghana, Legon

GhanaStudies is the journal of the Ghana Studies Association, an international affiliate of the African Studies Association. Published annually, GS strives to provide a forum for cutting-edge original research about Ghana’s society, culture, environment, and history. All of the scholarly articles in GS are peer reviewed by two anonymous referees, coordinated by an editorial team based in both North America and Ghana. Since its first issue in 1998, GS has published significant work by leading scholars based in Ghana, the United States, Canada, and Europe. In addition, GS features occasional material, source reports, and book reviews. It also serves to provide official notice of fellowships and prizes awarded by the Ghana Studies Association.

LandEconomics
Edited by Daniel W. Bromley, University of Wisconsin–Madison

LandEconomics is devoted to the study of economic aspects of the entire spectrum of natural and environmental resources, emphasizing conceptual and empirical work with direct relevance for public policy. Founded in 1925 by Richard T. Ely, the emphasis remains with articles that address the determinants and consequences of economic activity on the value and use of land, or the contribution of natural and environmental resources to economic activity.

TheJournalofHumanResources
Edited by David N. Figlio, Northwestern University

TheJournalofHumanResources is among the leading journals in empirical microeconomics. Intended for scholars, policymakers, and practitioners, each issue examines research in a variety of fields, including labor economics, development economics, health economics, and the economics of education, discrimination, and retirement. Founded in 1965, JHR features articles relevant to public policy practitioners.
Meet Me Halfway: Milwaukee Stories
Jennifer Morales
- Wisconsin Book of the Year, 2016 National Book Festival, selected by the Wisconsin Center for the Book
- Selection of the 2016 Wisconsin Library Association conference for “One Book, One Conference”
- Best Regional General Interest Books, selected by the American Association of School Librarians and the Public Library Reviewers

I Am Evelyn Amony: Reclaiming My Life from the Lord’s Resistance Army
Evelyn Amony
- Best General Interest Books for High School and Professional Use, selected by the American Association of School Librarians

Protest on the Page: Essays on Print and the Culture of Dissent since 1865
James L. Baughman, Jennifer Ratner-Rosenhagen, and James P. Danky
- Best Books for General Audiences, selected by the American Association of School Librarians and the Public Library Reviewers

Trojan Women, Helen, Hecuba: Three Plays about Women and the Trojan War
Euripides, verse translations by Francis Blessington, with introductions and notes
- Best General Interest Books for High School and Professional Use, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
- Best General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

A Winsome Murder
James DeVita
- Best General Interest Books for High School, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
- Best General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers
RECENT BOOK AWARDS ★ HONORS

Romaine Brooks: A Life
Cassandra Langer
★ Best Special Interest Books for High School, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
★ Best General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

Eclipse of the Assassins: The CIA, Imperial Politics, and the Slaying of Mexican Journalist Manuel Buendía
Russell H. Bartley and Sylvia Erickson Bartley
★ Best Special Interest Books for Professional Use, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
★ Best General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

Dreams of the Hmong Kingdom: The Quest for Legitimation in French Indochina, 1850–1960
Mai Na M. Lee
★ Best Special Interest Books, selected by the American Association of School Librarians and the Public Library Reviewers

Crossing the Driftless: A Canoe Trip through a Midwestern Landscape
Lynne Diebel
★ Best Regional Specialized Interest Books, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
★ Best Regional General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

Improvised Adolescence: Somali Bantu Teenage Refugees in America
Sandra Grady
★ Best Special Interest Books for High School & Professional Use, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
★ Best Special Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

JD: A Novel
Mark Merlis
★ Best Special Interest Books for Professional Use, selected by the American Association of School Librarians
★ Best General Interest Books, selected by the Public Library Reviewers

Eugenia: A Fictional Sketch of Future Customs, critical edition
Eduardo Urzaiz, edited and translated by Sarah Buck Kachaluba and Aaron Dziubinskyj
★ Winner, Jose Toribio Medina Award, Seminar on the Acquisition of Latin American Library Materials

Hive
Christina Stoddard
★ Finalist, Washington State Book Award for Poetry

Folksongs of Another America: Field Recordings from the Upper Midwest, 1937–1946
James P. Leary
★ Winner, Best Historical Research in Folk or World Music, Association for Recorded Sound Collections
★ Honorable Mention, Wayland Hand Prize for Folklore and History, American Folklore Society

City of Neighborhoods: Memory, Folklore, and Ethnic Place in Boston
Anthony Buccitelli
★ Honorable Mention, Wayland Hand Prize for Folklore and History, American Folklore Society

Hidden Treasure: The Life and Art of Theodore Czebotar
Patricia Hamilton
★ Winner, Biography, Midwest Book Awards
RECENT AND BEST-SELLING BACKLIST

Field Guide to Wisconsin Streams: Plants, Fishes, Invertebrates, Amphibians, and Reptiles
Michael A. Miller, Katie Songer, and Ron Dolen
ISBN 978-0-299-29454-0
paper $29.95

The Norske Nook Book of Pies and Other Recipes
Jerry Bechard and Cindee Barton-Parker
ISBN 978-0-299-30430-0
cloth $24.95

Lithium Jesus: A Memoir of Mania
Charles Monroe-Kane
ISBN 978-0-299-31000-4
cloth $24.95

My Son Wears Heels: One Mom’s Journey from Clueless to Kickass
Julie Tarney
ISBN 978-0-299-31060-8
cloth $24.95

Field Guide to Wisconsin Grasses
Emmet J. Judziewicz, Robert W. Freckmann, Lynn G. Clark, and Merel R. Black
paper $29.95

Place Names of Wisconsin
Edward Callary
ISBN 978-0-299-30964-0
paper $21.95

Treehab: Tales from My Natural, Wild Life
Bob Smith
cloth $24.95

Inspired Journeys: Travel Writers in Search of the Muse
Edited by Brian Bouldrey
ISBN 978-0-299-30940-4
casebound $24.95

Wildflowers of Wisconsin and the Great Lakes Region: A Comprehensive Field Guide
Merel R. Black and Emmet J. Judziewicz
ISBN 978-0-299-23054-8
paper $29.95

Crossing the Driftless: A Canoe Trip through a Midwestern Landscape
Lynne Diebel
paper $19.95

My Sister’s Mother: A Memoir of War, Exile, and Stalin’s Siberia
Donna Salecka Urbikas
ISBN 978-0-299-30850-6
cloth $26.95

I Am Evelyn Amony: Reclaiming My Life from the Lord’s Resistance Army
Evelyn Amony, edited with an introduction by Erin Baines
paper $26.95

UWPRESS.WISC.EDU 35
RECENT AND BEST-SELLING BACKLIST

John Bascom and the Origins of the Wisconsin Idea
J. David Hoeveler
casebound $44.95 s

Worse than the Devil: Anarchists, Clarence Darrow, and Justice in a Time of Terror, revised edition
Dean A. Strang
casebound $44.95 s

American Surveillance: Intelligence, Privacy, and the Fourth Amendment
Anthony Gregory
casebound $44.95 s

Power without Constraint: The Post-9/11 Presidency and National Security
Chris Edelson
ISBN 978-0-299-30740-0
cloth $24.95

Death in a Prairie House: Frank Lloyd Wright and the Taliesin Murders
William R. Denman
paper $18.95

Franco: A Personal and Political Biography
Stanley G. Payne and Jesús Palacios
cloth $34.95

Romaine Brooks: A Life
Cassandra Langer
cloth $26.95

Dreams of the Hmong Kingdom: The Quest for Legitimation in French Indochina, 1850–1960
Mai Na M. Lee
paper $29.95

Frank Lloyd Wright and His Manner of Thought
Jerome Klinkowitz
paper $26.95

Eclipse of the Assassins: The CIA, Imperial Politics, and the Slaying of Mexican Journalist Manuel Buendía
Russell H. Bartley and Sylvia Erickson Bartley
cloth $44.95

A Mysterious Life and Calling: From Slavery to Ministry in South Carolina
Reverend Mrs. Charlotte S. Riley; edited with an introduction by Crystal J. Lucky
ISBN 978-0-299-30674-8
paper $24.95 s

The Invisible Jewish Budapest: Metropolitan Culture at the Fin de Siècle
Mary Gluck
cloth $39.95

36 THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN PRESS SPRING 2017
ORDERS AND INFORMATION

All prices, discounts, and schedules of products in this catalog are subject to change. Search for out-of-print titles at bookfinder.com. Unless otherwise noted, all titles are available for sale worldwide.

JOURNALS DIVISION
uwpress.wisc.edu/journals

University of Wisconsin Press
Journals Division
1930 Monroe St., 3rd Floor
Madison, WI 53711-2059 USA
journals@uwpress.wisc.edu
Ph: (608) 263-0668
Fax: (608) 263-1173

BOOKS DIVISION
uwpress.wisc.edu

Main office (see specific contacts below)
University of Wisconsin Press
Books Division
1930 Monroe St., 3rd Floor
Madison, WI 53711-2059 USA
uwiscpress@uwpress.wisc.edu
Ph: (608) 263-1110
Fax: (608) 263-1120

Book purchases, returns, customer service
University of Wisconsin Press
c/o Chicago Distribution Center
11030 S. Langley Ave.
Chicago, IL 60628-3892 USA
custserv@press.uchicago.edu
Ph: (800) 621-2736
or (773) 702-7000
Fax: (800) 621-8476
or (773) 702-7212
Pubnet: @202-5280

U.S. SALES REPRESENTATIVES

CT, DC, DE, MA, MD, ME, NH, NJ, NY, PA, RI, VT

David K. Brown
University Marketing Group
davkeibro@icloud.com
Ph: (212) 924-2520
Fax: (212) 924-2505

AL, FL, GA, MS, NC, SC, TN, VA

Announcing new southern sales representation in January 2017. Contact us for details.

Andrea Christoffersen
UW Press Sales Manager
Ph: (608) 263-0814
Fax: (608) 263-1132

IA, IL, IN, KS, KY, MI, MN, MO, ND, NE, OH, Pittsburgh, Western PA, SD, WI

Carole Timkovich
Gary Trim
Trim Associates
ctimkovich@msn.com
Ph/Fax: (773) 239-4295

Martin Granfield
Trim Associates
mxgranfield@gmail.com
Ph/Fax: (262) 942-1153

AK, AR, ID, LA, MT, OK, TX, UT, WA

Ted H. Terry, Director
Terry & Read
teddyhugh@aol.com
Ph: (206) 954-5660
Fax: (866) 214-4762

AZ, Southern CA, NM

Alan Read
Terry & Read
alanread@earthlink.net
Ph: (626) 590-6950
Fax: (877) 872-9157

Northern CA, CO, NV, OR, WY

David M. Terry
Terry & Read
DMTerry@aol.com
Ph: (510) 813-9854
Fax: (866) 214-4762

Hawaii

Royden Muranaka
East-West Export Books (EWEB)
University of Hawaii Press
eweb@hawaii.edu
Ph: (808) 956-8830
Fax: (808) 988-6052

INTERNATIONAL SALES REPRESENTATIVES

Canada

Mical Moser
Lexa Publishers’ Representatives
micalmoser@me.com
Ph: (718) 781-2770
Fax: (514) 221-3412

Asia & the Pacific, Australia, New Zealand

Royden Muranaka
East-West Export Books (EWEB)
University of Hawaii Press
2840 Kolowalu St.
Honolulu, HI 96822 USA
eweb@hawaii.edu
Ph: (808) 956-8830
Fax: (808) 988-6052

UK, Europe, Russia, Eurasia, Middle East, Africa

Eurospan Group
c/o Turpin Distribution
Pegasus Drive Stratton Business Park
Biggleswade Beds SG18 8TQ, UK
ewww.eurospanbookstore.com
eurospan@turpin-distribution.com
Ph: +44 (0)1767 604972
Fax: +44 (0)1767 601640

All other international orders

Order Department
University of Wisconsin Press
c/o Chicago Distribution Center
11030 S. Langley Ave.
Chicago, IL 60628-3892 USA
custserv@press.uchicago.edu
Ph: (800) 621-2736
or (773) 702-7000
Fax: (800) 621-8476
or (773) 702-7212

OTHER CONTACTS

• Media requests: publicity@uwpress.wisc.edu
• Catalog requests: uwiscpress@uwpress.wisc.edu
• Instructors’ examination and desk copies: uwpress.wisc.edu/textbooks.html
• Permissions queries: permissions@uwpress.wisc.edu
• Rights inquiries: rights@uwpress.wisc.edu
• Royalty questions: jhahn3@wisc.edu
• Author book submission guidelines: http://uwpress.wisc.edu/submissions.html
• Submitting a journal article: http://uwpress.wisc.edu/journals/submissions.html

TERMS

Net 30 days. The listing of a price for any title is not intended to control the resale price thereof. Discount schedule applies to domestic sales only. THE NOTATION “S” next to the price of a title indicates short discount. THE NOTATION “X” next to the price of a title indicates a super short discount. THE NOTATION “A” next to the price of a title indicates an academic discount. The absence of a notation next to the price of a title indicates a trade discount.